The extra lying comfort

Air cushion control for dental treatment center

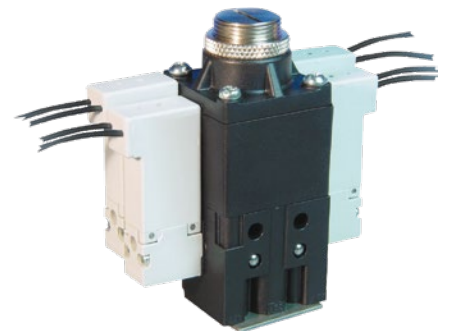

To increase patient comfort, treatment units in the field of dental technology offer a variety of innovative solutions. Especially during longer treatment sessions, the physical comfort considerably contributes to the overall well-being of the patient.

This custom designed unit is available with active lumbar support and a massage function. For this purpose, two air chambers inside the back rest of the unit are inflated and deflated reciprocally.

Comfortable massaging is accomplished by respective adjustment of the inflation and deflation cycles.

Product features

- Compact design
- Precise pressure control
- Exceptionally quiet for superior patient comfort
